In her presentation she urged the pupils to work hard at school and be part of such clubs like the SWEZAM youth club as through them they will learn a number of things which they can use even after they have left school.

For the girls she encouraged them to learn to stand and speak out regarding their rights and she said the girls must take leadership of their personal lives. she ended with a quote; “Don’t Be Quite and ugly but rather have brains and beauty.”

After wards there were more presentations from the schools.

choose Careers for their Children?” The SWEZAM youth members’ having attended Parents –Children Dialogue workshops ably and confidently answered the question with convincing points and this was live on national television. ### SWEZAM YOUTH CLUBS ELECTIONS FOR NEW EXECUTIVE LEADERS

The SWEZAM youth clubs in all the high Schools are changing their leaders. This is because most of the leaders are now preparing for their end of year final exams. So far Mukuka, Helen Kaunda, and Chibote High Schools have successfully changed their leaders through democratic elections. The other four schools are changing their leaders as well before the end of July.(the list of the names will be given when all the club wind up their selections) When this is done the new leaders will be trained during the Capacity building and peer education workshop

RESULTS, FEEDBACKS AND CONCLUSION

Results

Here under are some of the positive statements that has been gotten from the some activities undertaken in this quarter being reported;

NDEKE HIGH SCHOOL- Ellen Chiteula

“I joined SWEZAM in 2009, with expectations to learn more on the thematic areas, to have more members. The event was ok; we managed to present what we had prepared. We had just prepared a sketch and a song that went along with it. It was nice to see what other schools had for us”.

She also mentioned that she has an average knowledge on the three thematic areas, and that there is need to lend books to the club at Ndeke high school.

HELEN KAUNDA GIRLS-Mando

“I joined SWEZAM in 2009 because I was told that they have trips a lot. It was all good and different when I joined because of its (SWEZAM) uniqueness in terms of operations. I think it is a good attempt SweZam has made; there is so much for the Zambian youths to learn. It is good to start talking about sex at our age.

I have developed my interest in SWEZAM and I am also in the executive as a trustee. I think it will help more if many schools are to get involved with SWEZAM.

The event was nice. I think it will help the school clubs to cope well”.

MUKUBA BOYS-Gift

“I joined SWEZAM in 2009 with expectations that we would be having educational trips besides what we just talk about. Although we are fighting had against gender imbalance, there is need for our efforts in going against our traditions, culture. The cultural barriers are too strong and they are somehow contributing to gender imbalance placing a girl child always in a lower position.”

SWEZAM YOUTH ORGANIZER - Bruce Mubanga

“9th April was a day that was memorable to the SWEZAM project the seven clubs came together for the closing day SWEZAM joint meeting at MEF. 300 members in one meeting. ZNBC Y zone crew present, lots of drama, poem. It was explosive by the end of the meeting my voice was gone we danced and sang wow”

Conclusion

The project has worked on a workable plan that it plans to implement in the next quarter when the funding comes in.
